'I will be CM for five years'

- Kissa Kursi Ka as CM Siddharamaiah and Dy.CM Shivakumar camps compete to head the Government.
- No end to statements on CM's post despite AICC warning.

Bengaluru, Nov. 3 (KMS&BCT)- Hours after AICC General Secretary and Karnataka in-charge Randeep Singh Surjewala issued a stern warning to Ministers, MLAs and other Congress leaders, asking them not to make public statements regarding power-sharing in the Government with a warning that those who defied this directive would face disciplinary action, Chief Minister Siddharamaiah yesterday declared his intention to remain in office as CM for a full five-year term.

This clarification emerged amid mounting speculation within a segment of the ruling Congress party about a potential change in leadership after two-and-a-half years of this Government's tenure. Nevertheless, Siddharamaiah's statement highlights the underlying tensions within the Karnataka Congress, a party that had secured a comfortable electoral majority but is now grappling with competitive sycophancy between followers of CM Siddharamaiah and Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

In early 2024, Prime Minister Narendra Modi is expected to unveil a road map to transform the country into a developed nation with a $30 trillion economy by the time it completes 100 years of Independence. The Vision India@2047 plan, as it is officially named, has been in the works for nearly two years with officials across Ministries brainstorming on how to take the country from its current level of development to where it aspires to be. The NITI Aayog, in the process of giving this vision document a final shape, will soon run its central ideas and goals past top minds across sectors, including World Bank President Ajay Banga, Apple chief Tim Cook, as well as Indian industrialists and thought leaders, to finetune them and factor in any blind spots. Coming ahead of the Lok Sabha election, the plan may well be viewed as the government's policy playbook promise for prospective voters. But irrespective of electoral outcomes, future governments would do well to keep an earnest outlook towards the broad agenda. India's rise from 1991, when it accounted for 1.1% of the global economic output, to the 3.5% share it now commands as the world's fifth largest economy, has been driven by governments of varying political hues largely sticking to the reform and liberalisation agenda. Blips in the pace and vigour of reforms have also been visible across governments, including the present coalition-independent regime, especially on the trickier changes needed in factor markets such as land and labour.

The final plan should have some ideas to help navigate such challenging reforms and ensure policy certainty for global investors keen to bet on India's growth story. While the Five-Year Plans have been abandoned, the 2047 plan must be revisited at suitable intervals to recalibrate goals based on evolving global trends and Black Swan events. Aiming for a high 9% growth rate between 2030 and 2047 is laudable but factoring in alternative scenarios and changing course when warranted, is also advisable. — In The Hindu

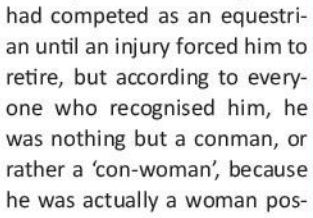
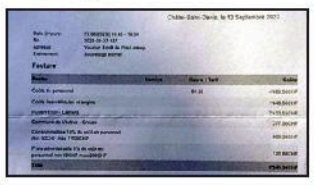
Athlete almost married female scammer



Seoul: Nam Hyun Hee, one of the best female fencers in the history of South Korea, recently found herself at the center of a scamming scandal that continues to rock the Asian country.

Last Monday, 42-year-old former fencer Nam Hyun Hee introduced her fiancee to the world. It was rumored that the famous athlete had finally found love again after divorcing her husband of 12 years, cyclist Gong Hyo Suk, in August. The two revealed their relationship through an interview, but instead of attracting support from her fans, Nam Hyun Hee was bombarded with allegations about her husband-to-be. She had introduced Jeon Chung Jo to the world as a young chaebol (a term used to describe someone from a wealthy business family) who had competed as an equestrian until an injury forced him to retire, but according to everyone who recognised him, he was nothing but a conman, or rather a 'con-woman', because he was actually a woman posing as a man.

Firefighters save dog, charge owner 10,000 dollars



Paris: A French man was stunned to receive a bill for 9,241 Swiss francs ($10,000) from firefighters who rescued his pet dog after she was stuck in a pipe while chasing a fox.

A couple of months ago, Alian Chichignoud, a Frenchman, traveling through Europe with his three pet dogs, went through a stressful ordeal after one of his pet dogs disappeared in Switzerland. Gaia, a Jack Russell Terrier, ran after a fox near the town of Vaulruz on Friday and didn't come back. On Sunday morning Gaia's muffled cries were heard. It was stuck in a very narrow pipe.

It took a team of 12 firefighters, no less than 9 hours to rescue. Alian Chichignoud was notified that he had to pay 9,241 Swiss francs ($10,000) in 30 days and suddenly, the heroic work of the firefighters didn't seem that heroic anymore.

Set right design flaw of 'Ambaari' by next Dasara

Sir,

This refers to the news item titled 'Ambaari bus ride a super hit' (Star of Mysore dated Nov. 2). Along with a couple of friends, I too went on the Ambaari bus on the upper deck recently.

Excitement was palpable but once the bus started moving we, that is everybody in the bus, could not see anything in front at all because of the high board of the bus in front. It was like a wall in front and you could only see the illumination from the side unless you stood up. When standing we had a lovely view if we looked back.

I wonder how come no one has brought it to the notice of the KSTDC authorities. If they travel once they will immediately have an idea of what I am talking and they can take some remedial measures if possible.

NOTE: This issue was highlighted in the news item titled "Ambaari design flaw mars joy of riders: Built-in obstruction for viewing illumination" in Star of Mysore dated Oct. 3, 2022.

SOM reader Dr. A.S. Aravinda Murthy (Retd. Professor) had also drawn the attention of the authorities concerned in this column on Sept. 30, 2022 in his letter titled "Ambaari Bus Ride: Swalpa Adjust Madkolli Swamy."

The front top part of the Ambaari is raised, God knows why, obstructing the view of the road in front. But unfortunately, the Karnataka State Tourism Development Corporation (KSTDC), which operates the Ambaari bus service, has not taken any corrective measures. Hope, it is set right by next Dasara. —Ed

'Akki Raja' dies at Bandipur due to heart, liver ailments

Gained fame for his love of rice, often raiding homes and shops in search of his favourite staple

Mysuru, Nov. 3 (MTY&BCT)- On Tuesday, Nov. 1, elephant 'Akki Raja' or 'Vinayagan' died due to a massive cardiac arrest at the Rampura Elephant Camp, part of the Ainooru Maarigudi Range in the Hediyala Sub-Division of Bandipur Tiger Reserve.

'Akki Raja,' a 45-year-old elephant, gained fame for his preference for rice, which led him to raid homes and fair-price shops in search of his favourite staple. After his capture, Forest Department officials were also planning to train him to be the next Howdah-carrying Elephant.

Akki Raja's journey began when he was initially captured in Coimbatore in 2021 and subsequently released into the Mudumalai Tiger Reserve by the Tamil Nadu Forest Department. However, after causing disturbances by searching for rice in Yelchetty village in Bandipur, the Karnataka Forest Department captured him in June 2023, relocating him to the Rampura Camp.

While in captivity, Akki Raja was housed in a 'kraal,' a wooden structure designed to restrict the movement of captured wild elephants and it soon became evident that he had exceptional behaviour. He responded well to instructions and swiftly grasped commands.

Given his impressive behaviour and lack of aggression, a decision was made to release him into the vast camp area after four months inside the kraal. Tragically, just ten days after regaining his freedom, he succumbed to a severe heart attack.

From Tamil Nadu to Karnataka

His story traces back to 2018 when he was one of two male elephants causing crop damage in the forest villages of Tadagam in the Coimbatore district of Tamil Nadu. Lovingly named 'Chinnadambi' and 'Vinayagan' by the locals, their recurring troubles prompted authorities to capture and transfer them to the Tamil Nadu Forest Department.

'Chinnadambi' was initially released into the Annamalai Tiger Reserve with a radio collar for tracking, while Vinayagan found refuge in the Mudumalai Wildlife Sanctuary. However, the issues persisted, resulting in Chinnadambi's relocation to the Pollachi Elephant Camp, where he now serves as a kumki elephant.

Vinayagan, having previously caused disturbances and conflicts, transformed into a 'rogue' elephant. This led the Tamil Nadu Forest Department to classify him as dangerous due to his continued raids on villages. A radio collar was fitted on him, but it snapped while he rubbed his head and neck against a tree.

This incident allowed him to evade capture attempts and he subsequently ventured into Karnataka, causing extensive crop damage in villages surrounding Kundakere area of Bandipur. His penchant for raiding homes and fair-price shops in search of rice earned him the moniker 'Akki Raja.'

Exemplary behaviour

In a bid to address the escalating elephant-human conflict, Akki Raja was captured near Kundakere on July 7, 2023, and relocated to Rampura Camp. Inside the kraal, Akki Raja exhibited exemplary behaviour, responding well to the commands of his mahouts. When he was brought out of the kraal, he bent his front legs as a gesture of greeting.

In the ten days preceding his sudden demise, Akki Raja and his fellow elephants enjoyed a nutritious diet at the camp. Tragically, on the afternoon of Oct. 31, around 2 o'clock, he abruptly collapsed. Veterinarians Dr. Wasim Mirza and Dr. Mujeeb Rehman made efforts to provide medical treatment.

Later it became evident that his heart had significantly deteriorated, beyond the normal parameters for elephants and liver complications were also identified during the subsequent post-mortem examination.

Dr. P. Ramesh Kumar, Director of Bandipur Tiger Reserve, said that a post-mortem examination indicated cardiomegaly, with the elephant's heart being three times the size of a typical elephant's heart. Biological samples from the viscera were collected and sent to the laboratory for scientific analysis before the deceased elephant was laid to rest at the camp.

The post-mortem examination was conducted in the presence of Hediyala ACF Paramesh, RFO Puneeth and Rajkumar, a representative of an NGO.

Musings on understanding religions and peace by mankind

Religion didn't bring the earth to existence. But religion can bring about its destruction.

Musing over the occurrences around the world, one does get a doubt whether man was born first or the religion. This is because, today man is fighting for the religion created by man rather than for human values. The so-called beasts of the jungle enjoy a fulfilling life founded on natural laws of the wild. But man is the only animal who has made humanity hang its heads in shame by involving in one or the other controversy and waging destructive wars. Universal proclamations of great humanitarians like Sharana Basavanna, "kindness is the root of all religions" (dayeye darmada mulavayya) seem to be limited to public oracles. The developments around the globe proclaim, "Religion is the root of all controversies." It is unfortunate that death and destruction are increasing many folds in the name of religion.

It is natural that each one of us believes that his own religion is supreme, invaluable and immutable. But no religion says, "Kill each other." Whatever the religious principles say, respecting other religions, is the real human value. It is condemnable that religions instead of subjugating the religious fervour of the followers are pushing them towards fanaticism to silence the other religious faiths. When we keep religion in our heart, it burns positively like a soft flame in the temple and when we allow it to rise to our head it provokes and becomes a destructive force and engulfs everything like a burning torch in the hands of an intoxicated drunkard, himself unaware of what he is doing.

Man's lifestyle has seen a sea change. It is not like what it was for thousands of years. He is globe-trotting beyond boundary lines and leaving behind his ancestral land to find a livelihood. Naturally, he is cultivating different languages, culture and lifestyle. Change is the law of the world. But religions aren't changing to cater to his new needs. Shouldn't there be a modification of the religious values accordingly? One never gets to understand why the man created religion is not undergoing any transformation while the man made Constitutions are changing with time?

Now a days a religious fundamentalist can mercilessly kill another human being without reason or considerations for a fellow being. The reason for it is nothing other than religious fanaticism. The people who live in brotherhood, fall apart and fight each other when a religious intolerant incident occurs in a far away place. This is the negative side of the religion. Religious doctrines should be an eye opener and should not turn a blind eye towards human values.

Famous writer P. Lankesh's words on religion are note worthy, "Ask a person who says religion is very important, how important it is for him. Is it so important that he can kill a person who doesn't accept his religion? Can such a religion have any meaning?" These words are meaningful.

However supreme one's religion may seem it is not possible to change the law of nature. We can't go against it. We can't control natural disasters. The religious head can't escape death however prominent he is. All created should perish is the law of nature. Religious principles can't change it. Surprisingly, even the modern educated get enraged when it comes to religious matter. We can also see that they don't fight to save the humanity as they fight to destroy it.

It is a paradox of the century that with the increase in reformations for enriching the modern education system, the standards of human values of brotherhood rising the ability to co-exist is decreasing. Instead of following the true spirit of religion, some are thirsting for violence which unravels the cruel face of religion. Religious centres, instead of propagating the values for the welfare of humanity, are turning into centres of hatred which train and mobilise its followers. Religion should empower the peace lovers and not nurture miscreants who create disturbance.

It is a clever step that the Constitution of a country is applied for certain matters and left out to follow one's own religion. No religion preaches that one need not follow the law of the land. Law abiding citizens are found when the religion rests lightly in their hearts. Isn't it unpatriotic of those who follow the law to procure the ration card but break the law of the land otherwise?

Some religions are forcibly converting people of other religions to their religion by luring the poor with food, money and jobs. Every citizen has the right to follow the religion of his or her choice. But it should be done on one's free will. It is the height of irony that gullible people who don't get swindled in business are getting cheated in the name of religion. This is not any less a crime than human trafficking.

Religion has become a means of survival for the political parties. There is no real religion being followed. It is not a matter of secret that they are doing politics in the name of religion. They openly take stands for or against any religion. Governments should consider each one a citizen of the country with equal rights and shouldn't wear the lenses of religion and discrimination. The political heads should work for the peace and harmony of the society. Instead they systematically make provocative statements in front of the media and spark discord among the civilians. Many deaths and destruction occur due to this. The one who faces the wrath and suffers is the innocent common man. The leaders are safe and thriving.

The prayers and worship being held in temples, churches and mosques have no relation with the way man is conducting himself in a society. If one spreads disharmony after chanting peace in the place of worship, what is the purpose? Such preaching is worthless. If we closely watch the wars going on around the world we need to ponder where are the principles of the religions? What good religions are doing for mankind. Where is peace on earth and understanding among mankind?

In the name of religion the rights of civilians to live peacefully are being snatched away. The countries are striving to save their religions instead of the welfare of the citizens. At least now let us hope that the religions will rest in the heart. May religions work for peace and harmony.

'I will be CM for five years'

Responding to conflicting statements by some Congress leaders, Siddharamaiah said, "I am the Chief Minister and I will continue in the role for the entire five years." When pressed for clarification on the rumoured appointment of three additional Deputy Chief Ministers, he stated, "Who said that? All these decisions are made by the high command. The Congress is not a regional party; it's a national party. No changes can be made without consulting the high command. Neither I, as Chief Minister, nor the MLAs can alter the Government. We have the high command and they will make the decisions."

Shivakumar targets BJP

Meanwhile, not directly responding to Siddharamaiah's statement, Shivakumar this morning dismissed the speculations of discontent in the Congress party over CM change reports after 2.5 years. He instead chose to target the BJP, accusing it of being incapable of choosing its leaders.

Speaking to media persons, Shivakumar said, "Where is the discontent in our party? There is discontent in the BJP, and because of that, they are not able to choose Opposition Leader."

"Have you seen any State or country where the Leader of the Opposition has not been elected even after five or six months have passed since the formation of the Government?" the Deputy CM asked.

While senior Ministers like K.N. Rajanna, Dr. H.C. Mahadevappa, Satish Jarkiholi, Zameer Ahmed and others want Siddharamaiah to serve as CM for full term, some MLAs contend that Shivakumar should become CM after two-and-a-half-years with a new Cabinet.

Priyank Kharge also wants to become CM

Mysuru, Nov. 3 (BLU&BCT)- With the Congress leadership appointing him as a Minister in the first round alongside party veterans, Chittapur MLA Priyank Kharge, now holding the influential IT, BT, Rural Development and Panchayat Raj (RDPR) portfolios, stands as one of the top leaders in Karnataka Congress.

Priyank Kharge

Speaking to reporters in Mysuru this morning, Priyank Kharge shared his aspiration to become the Chief Minister. He stated, "Whether Chief Minister Siddharamaiah continues in power as CM or if D.K. Shivakumar assumes the CM role for 2.5 years, these are their personal opinions. The ultimate decision rests with the Congress High Command. Everyone, from Zilla Panchayat members to MLAs, has the freedom to express their views and there's nothing wrong with that." Surprisingly he added, "I, too, aspire to become the Chief Minister. If the High Command chooses me, it, I would gladly take on the role and there's nothing inappropriate about that."

Priyank Kharge also criticised the BJP, questioning the absence of effective Opposition in the State. He pointed out that the BJP leaders have diminished in stature and humorously suggested that, instead of merely criticising the Congress, the Opposition could have served the State better by making their voices heard before the central leadership.

Let Dr. Parameshwara become CM; no one else: Minister K.N. Rajanna

Tumakuru, Nov. 3- Cooperation Minister K.N. Rajanna told reporters in Tumakuru this morning, suggesting that if the party high command decides against Siddharamaah continuing as Chief Minister, Dr. G. Parameshwara should step into the role.

Rajanna made it clear that as long as Siddharamaiah holds the position of Chief Minister, both Parameshwara and himself will support him. However, if Siddharamaiah declines the CM's post, Rajanna said Parameshwara should assume the role of Chief Minister, and no one else should be given that position.

"AICC leaders have said that there should be no talk about leadership change or the Government. I am not afraid of any such suggestion. I have spoken now, I will say that I will not speak again. Let them do whatever they want. I will not contest any elections in future," he said.

"Parameshwara is lucky. Anything can happen in the future. If someone from Tumakuru district becomes the CM it is better. Parameshwara has a bright political future. I'm looking forward to seeing it. I will work accordingly," Rajanna said.

Your chair is safe; work to rescue our drought-hit State: GTD

Mysuru, Nov. 3 (MK&BCT)- "Swami Siddharamaiah, as the Chief Minister with a strong and secure mandate, it's imperative that you shift your focus from the fight for the CM's post for five years and come to the aid of our people who are facing a severe drought," said Chamundeshwari MLA G.T. Devegowda (GTD), speaking to reporters at Taluk Office in Mysuru yesterday.

GTD

"The people have entrusted you with 135 seats and instead of effectively governing the State, you seem to be embroiled in a power struggle. You are worried about your future as Chief Minister when you should be worried about the drought conditions of the State.

S.T. Somashekar, Shivaram Hebbar, six other MLAs to join Congress?

Bengaluru, Nov. 3 (KMS& BCT)- Amidst ongoing speculation of a Congress leadership change in Karnataka, fuelled by a power struggle between Chief Minister Siddharamaiah and his Deputy, D.K. Shivakumar, the ruling Congress party is actively engaging with leaders from both the BJP and JD(S) as part of its preparations for the 2024 Lok Sabha elections.

This development underscores the Congress party's strategic advantage over the BJP, which is yet to name its leader in the State Legislative Assembly and its State Unit President. The Congress appears to be countering the BJP's 'Operation Lotus' by pursuing its own 'Operation Hasta'. In this operation, the Congress is both preventing the migration of its leaders to the BJP and actively poaching MLAs from the saffron party.

Somashekar Shivaram

According to sources, several BJP MLAs, including S.T. Somashekar, Shivaram Hebbar and six others, are set to resign from the BJP and relinquish their MLA positions to join the Congress on Nov. 10.

It's worth noting that a group of MLAs, including S.T. Somashekar and Shivaram Hebbar, played a role in the collapse of the Congress-JD(S) Government led by H.D. Kumaraswamy. Now, in a replay of the past some members of that group are expected to rejoin the Congress.

Inaccurate statistics upsets Minister Priyank Kharge

Takes officials to task for side conversations; asks them to take notes and strive for improved rural development

Mysuru, Nov. 3 (BLU&DM)- Upset by incorrect statistics provided to him, Priyank Kharge, Minister for Rural Development and Panchayat Raj (RDPR), expressed his frustration during a progress review meeting held at D. Devaraj Urs Hall in ZP Office here this morning.

He noticed a significant discrepancy between the statistics given to him a couple of days ago and the figures presented today. Kharge questioned the officials about this dramatic difference in statistics.

Kharge expressed deep disappointment over the shortage of human work days under the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act (MGNREGA) scheme, particularly during a period of drought in the State. He inquired why the set target had not been met and emphasised the need to intensify efforts, especially in T. Narasipur, Nanjangud and Periyapatna taluks, to achieve the MGNREGA goals. Meeting these targets is crucial to provide assistance to the rural population during times of drought.

Kharge pointed out that there was a significant gap between the reported and actual progress of various developmental works. He held the officials accountable for not meeting their targets and falling short of their achievements.

He cautioned against unscientific execution of projects and instructed the ZP CEO to address these issues and ensure that developmental works are executed properly and scientifically. Furthermore, he urged officials to accelerate infrastructure development in rural areas for the benefit of the rural population.

Expressing his displeasure with officials engaged in side conversations during the meeting, an upset Priyank Kharge warned them to pay attention and take notes on achieving the set targets. He also cautioned against apathy or negligence in their work.

The meeting was attended by MLAs K. Harish Gowda, G.D. Harishgowda, Darshan Dhruvanarayan, Anil Chikkamadu, and D. Ravishankar, MLCs Dr. D. Thimmaiah and C.N. Manjegowda.

Former MLA Dr. Yathindra Siddharamaiah and ZP CEO K.M. Gayathri were also present.

Meraki: 3-day Annual Cultural and Literary Fest at I Can International School

Multi-talented twin sisters Tara and Trisha enthral students

Mysuru, Nov. 3- Meraki, the three-day Annual Cultural and Literary Festival was held at I Can International School in Mysuru recently.

Organised, curated and conducted by School's Student Council, it engaged students across all grades. Meraki is synonymous with the school's sustainable, multicultural, student-led campus life.

This year's theme, 'Into the Jungle', sought inspiration from School's recent field trips to Masinagudi, Bandipur forests and Gerry Martin's farm in Hunsur.

The Student Council 2023-24 invited the 15-year-old dynamic duo, Tara and Trisha, to inaugurate Meraki and inspire students with their artistic repertoire and steadfast commitment to pursuing their dreams.

Tara and Trisha are multi-talented fraternal twins. Through a one-hour live concert, Tara and Trisha's voices resonated with the audience, as they shared the story of their journey. The twins are currently making waves with musical performances across India, as they pursue their career in arts and entertainment, while also lending their voices to demo tracks for Marks Schoenfeld's next Broadway production, Music Boy.

At the opening ceremony, Mark Schoenfeld, illustrious Broadway playwright, composer and producer who collaborates with seasoned music professionals, encouraged students to believe that extraordinary talent and skill can be acquired with hard work. He also shed light on discovering Tara and Trisha.

Having embarked on a journey of self-discovery from a young age with supportive parents, Shalini and Santosh, their childhood play sessions laid the foundation for a deep interest in theatre and acting. Tara's exceptional versatility shines forth through captivating monologues and impromptu scripts. Her ability to sing in multiple languages, including English, Spanish, Italian, French, Hindi, and Tamil, is testament to her vocal prowess.

"In an expression of I Can's commitment towards its sustainability goals, students were presented with cloth tote bags and Council members with metal water bottles," said Capt. Audrey Maben, School Founder & Head.

E-waste Collection Centre at Lions School in Gokulam

Residents may hand over e-waste till Nov. 10

Mysuru, Nov. 3- Lions Club of Mysore West (LCMW) has been collecting electronic waste for recycling since last month. E-waste contains hazardous chemicals such as lead, mercury and cadmium which seep into the earth and contaminate both soil and underground water when landfilled, thus posing a risk to human health and wildlife.

Recycling e-waste ensures that these hazardous materials are disposed of safely and properly and recycling e-waste allows these materials to be recovered and reused, which helps to conserve the earth's finite natural resources. Recycling e-waste requires less energy than manufacturing new products from raw materials. But manufacturing new products from raw materials generates greenhouse gases, which contribute to climate change.

E-waste recycling industry creates jobs in collection, transportation, processing and manufacturing. E-waste may be handed over at the Collection Centre in Lions Sevaniketan School, Gokulam, till Nov. 10.

The e-waste eligible for recycling will be handed over to NPE Waste, a Government licensed recycler. The amount generated out of e-waste disposal will be utilised towards environment projects of LCMW in-line with Lions International cause of environment protection.

Don't discard your toothbrush, give it to Oral Care Recycling Station

Mysuru, Nov. 3 (RK&BCT)- In the coming months, when the time arrives to replace your toothbrush, it's likely that you haven't given much thought on how to properly dispose of the old one. You may simply toss your old brush into the trash.

Mysuru, with an average population of 1.3 million, generates approximately 60 tonnes of toothbrush waste annually. Toothbrushes ending up in landfills can pose a significant environmental threat as the plastic in these brushes can pollute the environment.

Addressing this issue, an 'Oral Care Recycling Station' has been established in Mysuru, providing a place to deposit used toothbrushes for their transformation into eco-friendly footpath pavement blocks.

Mayor Shivakumar inaugurated this innovative facility recently at Smile Dental Care in Kuvempunagar. He was joined by Sri Datta Vijayananda Teertha Swamiji of Avadootha Datta Peetham, solid waste management expert B.S. Chidambar and Founder of Ideas Unlimited, Nagendra Setty.

This concept is the brainchild of Dr. Bharath Kumar Garla and Dr. Prathibha Garla. Their goal is to raise awareness among public and school children about plastic pollution. Instead of discarding used oral care products such as toothbrushes, toothpaste tubes and floss holders in regular trash, people can now deposit them in Oral Care Recycling Station.

These collected items are sent to a recycling facility run in Mysuru by Jagruth Tech, where they are transformed into eco-friendly footpath pavement blocks. The programme has already achieved success in several schools, including Kautilya Vidyalaya, Nypunya School, Kuvernpu School and East-West School. In these schools, Oral Care Recycling Station is placed for a week, and students are educated about plastic pollution.

Through the Oracycle Oral Care Recycling Programme, individuals can actively contribute to reducing oral care waste and conserving valuable resources.

During the inauguration, Mayor Shivakumar commended the initiative's aim to make Mysuru a city free of waste toothbrushes, while Sri Datta Vijayananda Teertha Swamiji expressed a desire to see 20 such units installed at the Datta Peetham Ashram in city.
